

Terms and conditions of use

Upon accessing Made to Last website, users expressly accept the terms and conditions of use mentioned below.

The site with domain name www.madetolast.pt, including all of its subpages, is owned by Made to Last, Lda., located at Travessa do Calvário Nº215 4595-106 Frazão, Paços de Ferreira.

All of the information and contents available on the site, including images, videos, text and information, logos and graphic design, and all other documents present thereon, are the industrial and intellectual property of Made to Last or third parties, who have authorized its inclusion, and may not be used outside of the accepted conditions. Unless any legal provision exists to the contrary, it is expressly prohibited to copy, store, reproduce, modify, transmit, circulate, market or, in any other way, make available to third parties information available on this site, except for personal and non-commercial use. Where permission is granted to use the above-mentioned information, its source should always be stated.

Any attempt to modify or load information, or any other action that may damage or endanger the system is strictly forbidden and may be punished in accordance with current legislation.

Made to Last has made information regarding the company available through the website and endeavors to ensure that it is exact, relevant, complete and up-to-date. Nevertheless, Made to Last cannot guarantee that no errors and/or omissions have been made and will correct any such errors or omissions signaled to the company or of which it is aware.

The information present on the website does not constitute an offer or recommendation by Made to Last. Therefore, any decision based on said information is the sole responsibility of the user.

Made to Last aims to minimize any inconvenience caused by technical errors. However, certain data or information present on the site may have been created or structured from files or formats that are not error-free. Consequently, the company cannot guarantee that the service will not be interrupted or disrupted by such problems. Prime Desgin cannot accept any responsibility for potential problems that arise when consulting this or any external sites linked to the Made to Last website.

This site is governed by Made to Last internal and external regulations and by-laws as well as by the applicable Portuguese and Community Law.